

ABOUT COMPLEXART INC.

From the rich history of the Middle Ages, comes the art of Jerry Gromotowicz. He completed his apprenticeship under an old world master back in Poland. Mr. Gromotowicz worked on the ancient churches and architect of eastern Europe while he mastered his trade. With more than thirty years experience in carving and milling wood, stone, and marble, Mr. Gromotowicz brings his passion for wood and art together in a symphony of beauty rarely seen in North America.

His past commissions include restoration work for some of the oldest buildings Canada and the USA. His apprentices work in Montreal and Detroit where their skills have secured them an extensive and impressive list of satisfied clients.

Allowing the Art to become Function

WOOD

From the remotest ages the decoration of wood has been a foremost art. The tendency of human nature has always been to ornament every article in use.

The nature of the wood being carved limits the scope of the carver in that wood is not equally strong in all directions. Wood is an anisotropic material. It is only in the hands of a skilled master that the art within may be brought to life under the tools of the master.
